

LIFE LICENCE QUALIFICATION PROGRAM (LLQP)

DESCRIPTION OF THE COURSE CURRICULUM

INTRODUCTION

The following tables have been adapted from the LLQP Design Document dated May 11, 2001. This material describes the knowledge or information to be covered and the level of understanding, necessary for the Accident and Sickness, Restricted LLQP or the full LLQP course. The material uses the original Design Document matrix and is arranged in columns:

1. ID: Students need not concern themselves with this number.
2. Ability Objectives and Level: The broad ability or competency that the agent should have. The number after each objective refers to the cognitive or difficulty level of the objective (See discussion below).
3. Measurable Objectives and Level: The objectives to be measured in the course relate to the Ability Objective. The number (1-6) after each objective refers to the cognitive or difficulty level of the objective (See discussion below).

SUMMARY - COURSE REQUIREMENTS

1- FULL LLQP:

All measurable objectives in column 4 will be covered.

2- ACCIDENT AND SICKNESS:

The measurable objectives in column 4, which apply to the accident and sickness license, are those which are marked by an *.

These measurable objectives are also relevant during the optional equivalency period (see Web site for further information) when students, who have passed an LLQP exam, will have the pass recognized as equivalent to an existing qualification. The existing qualification to which there will be equivalency is determined on a jurisdiction by jurisdiction basis.

Discussion - Level of Objectives:

Each Ability Objective and Measurable Objective has been assigned a level. These levels indicate the level/depth of understanding that new agents need to have to enter the profession. The levels are:

1. Knowledge--ability to recall facts and information. Objectives begin with words such as define, state or list.
2. Comprehension--ability to demonstrate an understanding of the facts or information. Objectives begin with words such as describe, explain, or discuss.
3. Application--ability to apply knowledge and comprehension to a specific situation. Objectives begin with words or phrases such as compare and contrast, using an example describe the advantages and disadvantages of, etc.
4. Analysis--ability to break down a situation into its relevant component parts. Objectives begin with words or phrases such as using various customer profiles or given several case studies, determine the client's needs
5. Synthesis--ability to put various pieces of information together to create a new whole. Objectives begin with phrases such as using various customer profiles or given several case studies, recommend the most appropriate products to meet the client's needs.
6. Evaluation--ability to conduct a high level evaluation, to judge appropriateness against purpose. Create an overall financial strategy to meet a given client's needs.

Courses are Based on Design Document:

The Design Document matrix used here is also a guide for course providers in the development of their course material and learning activities. The course material and learning activities must be designed to meet the measurable objectives. However, the course need not follow the order of the modules or measurable objectives in the Design Document. In addition, the Measurable Objectives are presented as the minimum acceptable content. Course providers may include additional content related to the Ability Objective that they deem relevant and useful for new agents.
